Pirates Trounce Giants in Final Game and Win Series-Browns Beat New Yorks Twice

LIVELY PIRATES TOO STRONG FOR GIANTS

Wagner, Viox and McQuillan a Combination Which Produces Defeat.

TWO OUT NO HANDICAP

That's When Pittsburgers Do All Their Scoring-Hits Go to Waste.

The Pirates won again from the Giants Yesterday. They took three out of five in this series and in their last eight games with the Giants have won five. New Nork's lead suffered a shrinkage of one game, coming back to nine, as the Phillies dup and stopped Chicago's rush.

Brooklyns plastered a one sided ut on the collapsing Cardinals, who he more firmly fixed in the cellar, such as the Reds won in Boston.

To-day's Schedule.

Wagner, Viox and McQuillan beat the Wagner, Viox and McQuillan beat the Giants yesterday. There were other Pirates involved, but the three named did such a big part of the beating that they were the stars of the cast. Still, the chorus men lent a hand, and the Pirate company as a team played a game of all around skill. They were good in every way, aggressive, capable and alert, They played better ball than the Giants and won by a score of 4 to 1.

They played better ball than the Giants and won by a score of 4 to 1.

Having two men out was the least of the Pirates' worries. It was at such times that they uncovered their effective hitting strength. All of their runs were made with two out. Viox and Wagner teamed up in the run making batting, and Wagner in addition rove the grassy moor gathering in liners and ground balls. He was the backbone of the Pittsburg game with his fielding and batting, and it was a blow from his blackjack in the fifth which was a mortal blow to the Giants and which turned a tie into a home defeat.

me defeat. Viox, like Wagner, made three safeties Viox, like Wagner, made three safeties and twice hit the ball with such force that he drove a two bagger and a three bagger through fielders who were in front of the ball, but couldn't handle it because of its velocity. It wasn't so much in frequency of hits that the Pirates punished Marquard as in hitting when needing hits. Before Viox and Wagner had slugged him in the fatal fifth Marquard gave a base on fatal fifth Marquard gave a base on balls to McQuillan. He retired the next in the bargain, was expensive. He tried o make McQuillan go after bad ones, which that canny comeback wouldn't do.

they were as non-supportable as the shift-ing sands. McQuillan's fielders covered the range with workmanlike agility and as completely as the soil and verdure. Doyle fumbled Carey's grounder in the first inning, but Marquard and Merkle at once framed up a snare for the erstwhile theologue and caught him napping. Carey roared a protest, but he was as thoroughly out as a snuffed candle. Viox singled, and stance taken for the purpose, sent Vee-o to third with a hit. Then Vee-o and Vog-ner employed a double steal, the former scoring through Doyle's weak return to

The Giants retaliated with a run, after which they went out of the retaliating business. Burns singled and advanced on Shafer's out. He scored when Fletcher drove sharply down the left foul line. Fletcher tried to stretch the hit, but Carey Wagner. Doyle singled and was forced by the Firates. Sharer and Merkle made a splendid play on Mitchell in the second, Shafer having a hard stop and Merkle taking his low and stretch-compelling throw. Wagner worked the delayed steal in the second, McLean being slow in getting his hrow away. However, Snodgrass took Wilson's hard drive and retired the side.

as patient and discerning as before and was the worker instead of the worked. Flies from Byrne and Carey found him still on first, but Viox shipped him to third with a white hot orack through Fletcher, although the latter stood his ground and tackled the cannon ball. Marquard had two strikes and three balls on Wagner and had two strikes and three balls. on Wagner and two strikes and three balls on Wagner and had to put the next ball over or walk the Dutchman. He put it over. Doyle managed to get his hands on the hit, but couldn't hold it, and two runs came in. Wagner was fooled by the short throw in and run down.

Burns struck out in the sixth and Shafer tripled to right. Fletcher struck out and Doyle flied to Wilson. With two out in the seventh Snodgrass singled and McLean did the same, both line hits. McGraw drafted a couple of reserves from the beach assigning Grant to the same of the structure of the same of th foul.

Murray made a play for Vy-ox's liner in the eighth, but couldn't quite get up to it. It shot through him and netted three bases. Vee-eu was held at third pending the demise of Wagner and Miller at first, assisted by Crandall and Shafer, but promenaded to the plate on a safe float to right by Wilson. A pass to Shafer and a hit by Fletcher sent two to bases in New York's half with one out. Miller and McQuillan took care of Doyle, Merkle kited on high to Carey. Carey jumped Newport, Aug. 20.—That a valuable Boston buil terrier was lost at the Newport dog show earlier in the month was learned to-day when Andrew J. Cole of West Roxbury, Mass., brought suit against the management of the show for the sum of $250. This is the first loss of a dog reported since the shows have been held here. This dog is supposed to have got out or to have been stolen on the first night of the show.

The Cardinals apparently are not supersitious. They do not fear the number 12. During their three visits to Ebbets Field the score card has included some player with these numerals attached to correspond with the builetin board. Perritt was No. 13 in the series that closed yesterday. The other visiting teams omit the number.

There was an odd base running mixup in the third session. Collins and Whent were on second and first respectively when Daubert sent a long drive to right. As it looked as if Cather was about to catch the ball Dahlen, who was coaching at third base, told Collins to go back to his original station. Collins, therefore, ram past Wheat, who was sprinting fast near the shortstop's position. As Cather missed the drive Wheat pulled up to let Collins go ahead of him and then both reached the plate within a yard of each other, beating the throw home. Fisher's buse hit in the second inning was a short Texas leaguer that Huggins could have caught. But the Cards' manager called for Cather, who couldn't reach the pill.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—The Browns, next to the fans, were the most surprised in dividuals in Sportsman's Park this afteroon when they took both ends of a ouble header from the New Yorks. The odds were even money that the visitors would win both games, basing the figures on the showing of the teams Monday. The score for the first game was 2 to 1, while the second was 7 to 0.

In the first setto Mack Allison, who recently was slated for the mirors, was opposed to Caldwell. The two went along neck and neck until the fifth inning, when Stovall singled and Johnston sacrificed.

The former scored on Agnew's single. The Browns got their last run in the next inning. Austin walked, Pratt sacrificed and Balenti singled. The New Yorks got their only run in the eighth, when Sweeney walked, moved up on Caldwell's out took third on Mairel's single and out, took third on Maisel's single and stole home while Maisel stole second. Moran Acts Quickly as Sun Blinds Him

QUICK work by Moran, the Dodgers' right fielder, probably saved him from an accident in the eighth inning yesterday. Moran, wearing blue glasses, ran in for a line drive from Huggins's bat and just as he had gauged the ball, the sun flashed in his eyes. Moran, who had completely lost sight of the flying missile, threw himself flat upon his face just in time as the ball whistled over him with plenty of momentum. But for Moran's presence of mind the ball might have struck him squarely in the face, smashing the sun goggles and possibly injuring his eyes. INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE.
